Annexed by Prospectors.

The Silver State says: The Geological Survey Corps, who are to work on this Coast this Summer, are now getting ready to start out. "We rather dislike the western work in the mining States," said the leader of a corps on glacial and geological investigation, as he was starting a day or two since, "because we are followed daily and hourly in our investigation by prospectors, who annoy the life out of us. At every boring we are surrounded by crowds, who ply us with questions as to the prospects for ore. If we chip a piece off a rock to inspect it some prospector's eye gets to my glass before I can bend my head. If I pick up a stone half a dozen people inquire if we have found gold or silver or copper, and wherever the corps goes, a funeral procession of prospectors follow us. Like the poor we almost always have them with us, and I'll be hanged if they are not nearly always poor, too."

Almost ready.

The Silver State in a long article calls for the distribution of the pamphlets which contain the evidence in the Asylum investigation. The pamphlets have all been printed at the State Printing Office and make a book of 350 pages. They were sent below for binding last Saturday and will be ready for distribution in a few weeks.

ALL SORTS.

—Wizard Oil at Geo. Thaxter's.
—Now for the base ball match.
—Stocks are getting a little on the stagger.

—Senator Briggs is very sick in San Francisco.

—Mrs. Fair and daughters are at the Lake looking for real estate.

—The Ohio Democrats have nominated Thomas E. Powell for Governor.

—The Statutes of 1887 have been received at his office printed and bound in good shape.

—The extension of the Carson & Colorado Railroad to Southern California is under consideration.

—The man who was round selling ink eraser, was nabbed and compelled to pay up $25 license etc.

—For Sale.—A large roomy residence in the Western part of the city. Fine location. Apply at this office.

—The bicycle club expect to appear on Sunday with ten bicycles, as the roll of membership is increasing daily.

—Governor Stevenson has appointed A. J. Bretonnel Notary Public for Humboldt county to reside at Golconda.

—Under the Mc Cullough regime men who die in the State Prison are given a Christian burial and not dumped into the ground as formerly.

—Lieutenant-Governor Davis is doing a rushing lumber business and is getting orders for all the lumber he can saw. He does not let the honors of State interfere with business.

—Dr. Tanner of the British Parliament got up the other day and called another member a d—d snob. John Mackay who was in the gallery thought for a moment that he was inspecting an old time Nevada Legislature.

—Texas fever has broken out in Nebraska, and over one hundred head of cattle died recently of that disease in less than twenty-four hours. The sagebrush country is indeed the ideal cattle country, as it is exempt from all contagious cattle disease.

—How does it happen there are so many old maids among the Carson school teachers?" inquired a reporter. "Because they are women of good sense and refuse to give up a position paying $80 per month for a $10 man," was the reply.—Va. Chronicle.

—Judge Cary says that George Keogh, Mrs. Langtry's agent, is the first theatrical man in years, who coming to his hotel, did not ask him to bid against some other hotel for the keeping of the troupe. He paid everything in advance and did not ask for any rebates or reductions.

Stuck After the Climate.

Mrs. Charles McLaughlin widow of the man who some years ago was killed in San Francisco by Cox, was in this city yesterday. She said in conversation with a friend:

"I have been in the habit every Summer of going to Europe but in future I shall make my Summer tour in the Sierra mountains and Nevada. The air here is beyond description. I have just visited Lake Tahoe for the first time and was surprised at the wonders of its scenery. I shall purchase some land there and build a Summer residence. I think the people who have the means ought to make themselves as comfortable as possible. A person who could not spend a comfortable Summer there would not be comfortable anywhere in the world."

Mrs. McLaughlin is worth four millions.

Off for the Lake.

The town is being rapidly depopulated in favor of the Lake. Yesterday the Ardery, Yerington, Belknap and Bender families left by private conveyance and Mrs. E. B. Rail and Mrs. Hank Smith of San Francisco went up by stage. Ex-Governor Adams, his wife and mother-in-law also went by private conveyance. Mr. Davis and Harry Thaxter are bound for Hope Valley; J. M. Benton and family, for Strawberry Valley. They start this morning.

SHE LIKES THE CLIMATE.

The Jersey Lily Investing in Nevada Land.

Yesterday a mention was made of the purchase by Mrs. Langtry of a Carson lot in Corbett's addition of this city. Some doubt was cast on this statement, but the books of the County Recorder's office show the recorded deed and transfer in due legal form.

Yesterday Mr. Geo. Keogh, her agent, invested in the lot adjoining Mrs. Langtry's; lot 15. He said he had followed his employer's real estate investments for some time, and never failed to make money by purchasing wherever she did. It was a purely business proposition with him.

After the play on Wednesday evening she completed negotiations for the purchase of 40 acres of sagebrush land near the North Carson mine, and paid the purchase money yesterday morning through her agent. In speaking of the purchase to an APPEAL reporter she gave the following solid reasons for the faith that was in her:

"You know that I have often been charged with coming over from England, raking America with a fine-tooth comb and all that sort of thing, for the money I can make. Of course, I am in this country to make money. I put up my posters, advertise the price of admission, and then the public can, of course, do as it pleases about coming to my performance."

"I have become a citizen of the United States—although Judge Field says that my application was invalid, but that matter can be easily rectified—and I do not propose to take my money back to England. I have made it a rule to invest it where I have earned it. I have been treated with great kindness, both by the press and people of this State, and that courtesy is very deeply appreciated by myself. I wish to make some more practical acknowledgement than mere thanks. I have purchased forty acres of sagebrush land, and I propose to sink an artesian well on it, and keep sinking until I strike a big flow of water. I also propose to purchase some land bordering on Lake Tahoe. Both these pieces of property I shall transfer to my little niece, who is now seven years old. When she is 21 she will own two valuable pieces of property. I suppose I buy land by a sort of woman's intuition. I have invested a good deal in American real estate, and have always made money by it; and a good many of my English friends have followed my lead, as they say I am a sort of land mascot. At the same time it is not all luck with me; I keep well posted on the soil and climate of places by reading all the papers. In a few years all the land in Nevada will be taken up, and then you will have to purchase of the original owners to get it. They will ask a big price, of course, and land will be hard to get, and high."

"Your climate is bound to bring people here for health as soon as they find it out. It is thousands of feet above the sea level, and the winds that blow here from the sea come to you filtered through the resinous pines of the Sierras. The healthful scents of the mighty pines throbbing with centuries of life, mingled with the bracing ozone of the Pacific Ocean; think of what a combination that gives one for the lungs! Excuse me if I enthuse a little, but there is absolutely no air on earth that beats this."

"Yes, I have visited the Lake, and I shall own a piece of property there shortly, as soon as it can be selected. Before many years the Lake will be a great resort for the wealthy people of San Francisco. They will build elegant Summer cottages, as they do at the Eastern watering places, and every piece of real estate you touch there will double and treble on your hands. It is one of the beauty spots of the world, and only just beginning to be known."

"Do you expect to make any purchases in Reno?"

"No; it seems a pleasant place, too, but the first man who came to me with an offer gave me rather a bad impression. He seemed to think that Reno was a trifle bigger than San Francisco, and had only mean things to say of every other town. He said that the Capitol was played out, and would soon be moved down there. I replied, 'If you expect to build up yourselves by pulling down others I don't want any of your real estate, as a town can never prosper that way.' I hate backbiters on general principles."

"I want you to thank the people of Carson for their generous treatment of me, and tell them that it is fully appreciated. I now consider myself a sagebrusher and Nevada taxpayer, and I know something of farming, too, for I have hoed many a hill of potatoes when I was a girl."

A PLATITUDE ON SPUDS.

There is something suggestive in a short item now going the rounds of the press, to the effect that some body over in California shipped a carload of oranges and one of potatoes to Chicago, and made more money off the spuds than off the "golden fruit"—they were Nevada spuds too, grown on the Carson river near Dayton, but California gets credit for them all the same. There is no spot under the sun where such excellent potatoes are raised as in Nevada. They are superlative excellences when cultivated by persons of experience, who know just how and when to irrigate them and when they are ripe. A knowledge of these matters is imperatively necessary to the production of a perfect spud. Too much water makes them dark and soggy; with less than enough they become coarse-grained or fibrous, and if not dug at the proper period of ripeness they are liable to shrivel up and develop incipient rot that detracts from their keeping qualities.

California may gloat over her big navel oranges, but we'll take the genuine bog orange every time. There's solid nutriment in it, but did it ever occur to any reader of the APPEAL that there's lots of money in it? There is, without doubt. Nevada potatoes bring high prices everywhere. If some enterprising individual, with brains and a little money, should build a drying apparatus he would jump into a large and profitable business at once. Our desiccated potatoes would become famous in a short time. The deep water ships sailing from San Francisco would consume hundreds of tons of them yearly. Isolated camps away from railroad facilities, would call for them, and Nevada dried spuds would be in everybody's mouth. Somebody will start the business some day and make a fortune.

Powder House Struck by Lightning.

STREETOR, Ill. July 21.—At 2:30 this morning the powder house of the Chicago, Wilmington and Vermillion Coal Company, was struck by lightning, and between 8,000 10,000 pounds of powder exploded. Strange to say, only one fatality has been reported, but a large number have been seriously injured. The number of casualties will reach nearly a hundred. It is impossible to estimate the loss, but will probably reach $100,000.

The Rumor Discredited.

LONDON, July 21.—The rumor regarding the death of Henry Stanley is utterly discredited here. The last authentic news from him was from Aruwimi, and was sent under the date of June 22. It would be impossible for a native to reach Matadi from Aruwimi alone, and the distance to be traveled is a thousand miles through the roughest country.

Fearful Railroad Accident.

NEW YORK, July 21.—This morning a gang of Italian laborers were at work on the Erie Railway, three-fourths of a mile from Hobokus. The Chicago express was an hour late, and rushed around the curve before the men had the slightest warning and dashed through them, killing 12 or 15 on the spot, and wounding many others.

A Caeap Well.

About a mile and a half South of the State's Prison is a well dug by the prisoners sent out to gather sagebrush. It is but seven feet deep and has two feet of clear, cold water in the bottom. The well was dug in a dry, sandy place where there was not the slightest indication of water.
